

SENATOR BACON IS RENOMINATED

Fourth Time Georgia Democrats Have Sent Him to Senate.

Atlanta, Ga., August 21.—United States Senator A. O. Bacon won the election in the Democratic State primaries today of being the only man to be sent to the Senate four successive terms from Georgia. Returns up to midnight indicated that he carried 129 of the 146 counties in the State. His election is assured.

In the gubernatorial race, John M. Slaton, of Atlanta, won a sweeping victory over his two opponents, Joe Hill Hall, of Macon, and Hanger Alexander, of Decatur. Alexander, who entered the race on a Prohibition platform, lost his own county and home town, Slaton.

Incomplete returns indicate that Charles Crisp, parliamentarian of the House, will be nominated as Congressman for the Third District and J. W. Wise in the Sixth. Thomas M. Bell is leading in the Ninth District over John S. Hatcher. J. M. Walker, of Valdosta, is leading in the race in the Eleventh. There were no other congressional contests.

PENROSE, ANGRY, STRIKES BACK AT HIS ENEMIES

"Which being translated reads as follows:

"Telegram received. Sorry that the phone did not work better. I expect to have talk with Senator Penrose, and until after that it is impossible for me to have any definite view.

"JOHN D. ARCHBOLD."

"Thus it is discovered that while the Flinn yellow journals in Pennsylvania are expressing their abhorrence of what they denounce as a malicious transaction on my part, within a few months of the date of the alleged letter from John D. Archbold to me, Mr. William Flinn was asking the aid of the same John D. Archbold to secure his appointment and election to the United States Senate and conducting an active correspondence with him under a cipher code."

Flinn Discovers Charges.
Philadelphia, August 21.—Former State Senator William Flinn, the recognized leader of the Roosevelt forces in this State, in a formal statement discusses the charges made in the Senate to-day by Senator Penrose. His statement follows:

"The newspaper reports of Senator Penrose's confession of faith and other things have been read by me, and in it he makes two references to my alleged efforts to obtain an appointment to the United States Senate as successor to Senator Quay.

"First, as I understand it, he alleges that I sought the support of John D. Archbold for the appointment, and quotes what purports to be an exchange of telegrams between Archbold and myself on the subject.

"When the senatorial vacancy occurred in 1904 a practically solid Republican delegation in the Assembly from Allegheny County, which has a majority from Western Pennsylvania, favored my selection to succeed Quay. Penrose was in favor of Oliver. He was not allowed to name his man for the appointment of the Senate, and upon a conference held in the offices of the Pennsylvania Railroad in Philadelphia by President A. J. Cassatt, Henry Clay Frick and ex-Senator Don Cameron, the latter two representing the corporation in this State and the big interests in New York.

"Under the old system in Pennsylvania no Senator has been chosen from this State without the O. K. of the Standard Oil and the Pennsylvania Railroad. If the telegrams which Penrose read in the Senate are genuine, they show that I make a pretty good guess as to who would dictate the appointment to succeed Quay, and also that Archbold and his associates were opposed to me, notwithstanding the practically solid backing of the section of the State which was conceded to be entitled to the senatorship. The fact that a selection was made and forced on Penrose demonstrates that he was then as now under the domination of Archbold and the interests which turned down my appointment.

"Second, Penrose alleges that I offered $1,000,000 or $2,000,000 to him and to Israel W. Durham, the latter now being dead, and unable to testify, to favor my appointment to the Senate. Taken in connection with my purported telegram to Archbold, Penrose's allegation disproves itself from several angles.

"First, if Penrose could have sold the senatorship for such a sum, his record as a corruptionist is such that evidence that he would have taken the money and delivered the goods. Second, the appointment of Knox at the dictation of Archbold, Frick, Cameron and Cassatt proves that Penrose did not have the senatorship in his hands to dispose of.

"Third, the very allegation that I solicited Archbold's support and requested the Standard Oil chief to give orders to his man Penrose in my behalf indicates that I was as ignorant as to know how Penrose could be controlled without the necessity of buying him.

"As a matter of fact, I never asked Penrose or Durham to support me for Senator, and never even discussed the matter with them. These men were my personal and political enemies, with whom I had no contact or relations since 1888.

Senator Penrose, caught red-handed, evidently made his statement in reference to me for the combined purpose of luring the waters like a cuttlefish, that he might withdraw himself from the public gaze and to provoke the only possible retort which can characterize a man making such a statement. I do not propose to lend myself to his plan.

"But there may be a way in which he can be withdrawn from his shield of personal privilege in the United States Senate. If so, he will have an opportunity to add a perjured soul to the other chief characteristics which disclose enmity to the American people—a black heart and corrupt hands."

Fulmination From Colonel.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., August 21.—An attack on Senator Penrose was made by Colonel Roosevelt to-night after he had read the Senator's statement in the Senate today. The ex-President quoted from letters which he had written to George B. Cortelyou, chairman of the Republican National Committee in 1904, to prove that no contributions had been accepted from the Standard Oil Company.

"Mr. Penrose and his allies and the entire crowd of crooked politicians and crooked financiers who have attempted to make these attacks upon me," said Colonel Roosevelt, "have made them and are making them not only knowing that they are false, but because they are false and because they know that the forces behind me, and which at this time represent the only forces which the crooked politicians and crooked financiers of the country have really to fear."

"The only part of Mr. Penrose's statement that needs comment by me is that portion in which it is asserted that I had been advised of a campaign contribution from Mr. Archbold in behalf of the Standard Oil Company to the Republican national campaign committee, and that I directly or indirectly requested a contribution from Mr. Archbold and his associates in the Standard Oil Company. This statement is false."

Van Valkenburgh Makes Reply.
Philadelphia, August 21.—E. Van Valkenburgh, editor of the Philadelphia North American, who is with Colonel Theodore Roosevelt at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., to-night dictated over the telephone a statement saying in part: "Senator Penrose's evident purpose in bringing my name into his statement before the Senate is to forestall the presentation of evidence in the Penrose case. The North American has a right to be concerned, but such as has not been exposed in public life in this country in recent years."

Comment From Cortelyou.
New York, August 21.—George B. Cortelyou, chairman of the Republican National Committee in 1904, had his attention called to-night to Senator Penrose's statement regarding alleged Standard Oil contributions to the campaign fund in that year.

"I have no comment to make," he said, "other than to refer you to my testimony on July 11 before the Senate subcommittee on Privileges and Elections."

In his testimony before that committee, Mr. Cortelyou said he had never heard of Mr. Archbold or any one in his behalf making a contribution.

TRACING DOWN CLUES

Mystery Surrounding Discovery of Skirt and Hammer May Be Solved.

The police last night obtained a clue which may lead to a solution of the mystery surrounding the discovery yesterday morning of a woman's skirt and a heavy hammer near a few drops of blood on the north bank of the mill-race near the foot of Seventh Street. Just what the result will be or what the information on which detectives are now working will bring to light cannot be said.

The clothing and hammer were found by a negro, who summoned Patrolmen Bertucci and Jordan. The garment was wet from the heavy rain during the night. There was a stain upon the hammer, which some were inclined to believe was blood.

Whether the puzzle when solved will result in the disclosure of a tragedy cannot be said. The police have lately had any reports of women being missing. In view of this fact, they have little data on which to base their work.

As usual, next Sunday, THE TIMES-DISPATCH MAGAZINE will put over a few good ones. For instance, every baseball fan, and even those who never saw a ball game, will want to read "Great Games in Baseball," by Edward Lyell Fox. It presents many heroes of the diamond in new spheres of action.

"The Inn on the Moor," being the third of H. B. Marriott Watson mystery stories, "At the Sign of the Dragon," relates a hair-raising experience that will make your own hair stand in sympathy. "The Gillingham Rubies," by Edgar Jepson, reaches a most interesting point.

"The Most Famous Woman Whip in the World" finds a place in the series, "Women of the Great Outdoors," and Mildred C. Greene rounds out an unusually complete issue with a half-page subject drawing, "A Summer Flirtation."

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

By Gus Malbert.

Lon Castro returned with Steve Griffin for four games here. After losing an entire series on his home lot, Castro is ambitious enough to believe that he can turn the tables here. And there is some logic in his argument. The Colts thus far have proved a far better road team than a home team. Twice in two weeks they have smothered it all over the clubs whose guests they were. They left home last week for Roanoke in third place and came back in second place, just one-half game behind the Gobblers. Then, battling against the Tars here at home, they lost that advantage and allowed the Gobblers to draw away from them, being exceedingly lucky to remain in the runner-up station. We have no desire to be a killjoy, but in the light of previous experiences, it would not be surprising to see Castro's bunch jump on our lads with both feet and get away with the big end of the series. Of course, we hope that this will never be the case. Indeed, we hope that Roanoke will literally lick the socks off of Petersburg while Richmond is making it seven in a row from Portsmouth.

Since Harvey Bussey was given the opportunity yesterday to show that he can win a ball game—and he delivered only—Charlie Strain looks like the card today. However, Griff is on the last lap for the race, and in an effort to put his best foot forth, may work Doc Ayers to-day, Strain to-morrow and Ayers and Perryman or Griffin in the double bill scheduled for Saturday. As a matter of fact, Richmond hasn't in four years been so well fortified in the box. Perryman is the fall guy of the outfit. He can't get rid of his jinx, yet he looks to have about everything a real regular flinger should have. He has a wicked fast ball, an assortment of hooks calculated to fool even the Ty Cohbs and Joe Jacksons, but he loses consistently. Maybe it's gone now, that jinx, and maybe if it is he can join the ranks of winners.

that we would be deprived of witnessing the world's series we might hope that the West would win.

The attempt on the part of the Old Dominion Motorcycle Club and the Amateur Baseball Commission to secure the consent of the Council to include that portion of Byrd Park now devoted to athletics should receive encouragement.

No branch of athletics can be successfully carried on where protection of the participants is limited, and ball games, especially where the partisan spirit mounts high, should be played within inclosures so that the offenders, if any, can be quickly apprehended and punished if necessary. No good reason for councilmanic objection can be seen at this time. The parties proposing the move are willing to bear the expense and the park will remain public. It will give Richmond a motor and horse speedway and will provide three diamonds for the amateurs.

The Bankers, winners of the amateur championship in Washington last season, have been eliminated and the local champs will not have a chance at their old rivals. It looks as if the Cornell club will win. (By McDonald is playing first base for this outfit and Sam Edmundson, once a pitcher with the local Virginia League club, is alternating in the box and outfield. These two will prove a big drawing card in the games here.

Manager Crump, of the Blues, believes in taking time by the forelock. He has therefore ordered all candidates for the football team to report at the armory next Monday night to receive uniforms and to go through the first throes of fall practice. No start is too early which has as its end perfection of team work, the one thing which was lacking in the Blues' eleven last season.
